Dear Jim, Lane, Gregory and King

2/5/77

The January 17 Publishers Weekly holds what I've been waiting for, Prentice Hall's puffing of "Code Name 'Zorro': the Murder of Martin Luther King Jr."

This is on page 59. My source could not restrain an expression of his indignation so if Dick or anyone else you know can get a copy I'd appreciate it. I'd like an extra for Les, please.

However possible we will want all the promos. There is enough in this book for there to be many.

This says, claims what I've been waiting to be claimed and said by the publisher. I had it from others.

This is going to be a very inaccurate, very wrong book. Great.

I'd known it but I wanted it to get frozen. This is one of the reasons I've not been wanting to rush on disclosures, especially not in public.

The announcement says P-H is "rushing tecard an April 4 pub date." By normal hardback standards this would mean it is in type now.

However, I see no reason to help them with corrections.

Not until after it is bound, anyway.

I'd be including a copy of the mention only the Pacifica fellow who was here managed to gum up my copying machine when you and I were getting the affidavit executed Friday. I can't have a service call until ~~mmmmm~~ day after tomorrow at the earliest.

One line you'll like:"Our inquiry has raised serious doubts about the official version of the murder." Lane.

Pocket Books has contracted the papeeback, to appear later.

Best,
